

Tudor Rose

A modern residential home for young adults with learning disabilities, communication difficulties and additional needs.

- Four bedroom home
- For individuals with learning disabilities and communication difficulties
- Active home with all service users regularly enjoying external activities, ongoing learning and visits to the local town
- Highly trained staff who can all communicate to service users in Makaton

Situated in the market-town of Alton, Hampshire, Tudor Rose is a welcoming four-bedroom home that provides comfortable accommodation to up to four young adults with a range of learning disabilities. Currently, the service users are all female and range in age between 24 and 30 years.

The service users at Tudor Rose all have communication difficulties and therefore communicate solely by Makaton. Therefore the team at Tudor Rose are all fully competent in Makaton signing and receive ongoing training around the communication technique.

The home offers a lively environment, with the service users regularly undertaking activities and hobbies. They also regularly attend the local college for ongoing education and also regularly visit the local town for social activities, including shopping, visiting the library and going to the local pubs. A vehicle is available to the home.

Tudor Rose has four bedrooms in total, with one downstairs and three upstairs, a large sitting room that opens onto the rear garden, a separate dining room and a kitchen. Two bedrooms have en-suite facilities and there is also a separate bathroom upstairs. There is also a large rear garden, which is greatly enjoyed by all residents during the warmer months.

The team at Tudor Rose provide 24 hour care and support, including sleep night staff who are available throughout the night. All staff members receive ongoing NVQ training in order to provide the highest levels of care to the service users.
